

Water use cuts urged for well work

Kevin L. Hoover

MAD RIVER UNION

NORTHERN HUMBOLDT – The Humboldt Bay Municipal Water District (HBMWD) will reduce and cut Northern Humboldt's supply of Mad River water three times in the next several months to conduct maintenance on its aquifer well water collectors.

The first of the three maintenance events is underway today. It involves replacement of an isolation valve on Collector No. 4, and will require reducing water gathering to a single collector from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

On Wednesday, Sept. 18, the HBMWD is scheduled to replace a water tank outlet valve, which will require draining the tank and the main pipeline for points southbound. During this maintenance, the water supply will be halted except to McKinleyville and Fieldbrook. Other

Coastal Comm OKs Trinidad Bay Hyatt

Caltrans' U.S. Highway 101/Indianola safety work approved

MAD RIVER UNION

HUMBOLDT – In a locally-held meeting, the state's Coastal Commission has given conditional approvals to two controversial projects – a 100-room, five-story hotel next to the Cher-ae Heights Casino and the U.S. Highway 101 interchange.

The commission began three days of meetings on Aug. 7 at Eureka's Wharfinger Building. A finding that the hotel is consistent with the state's Coastal Act was conditioned on confirming a source of water. A coastal development permit for the highway project was approved with added conditions related to sea level rise.

A question of consistency

The commission's Aug. 8 meeting included the Trinidad Rancheria's controversial proposal to construct a five-story Hyatt hotel next to the Cher-ae Heights Casino.

The leasing and a loan guarantee for the hotel are being administrated by the federal Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), which has declared the project to be consistent with the California Coastal Act.

But the BIA's request for concurrence on that was rejected by the commission last June, mainly due to lack of a definitive water source.

Commission staffer Mark Delaplaine told commissioners that the Rancheria is working with the City of Trinidad on supplying water but an agreement hasn't been forged.

"The city is presently assessing their existing water system and states that they need to complete these studies before committing to additional water service," he said.

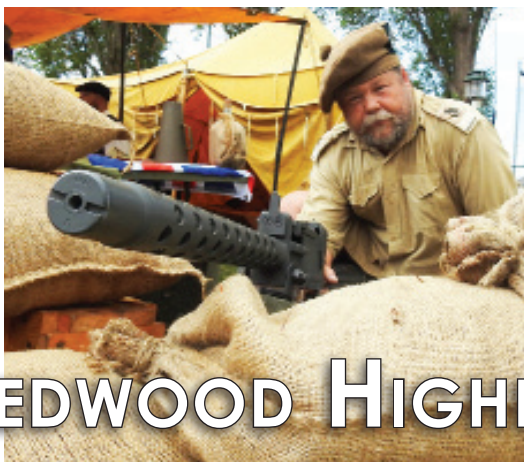

The week before the meeting, the Rancheria submitted information related to a 60-foot deep well tap that would provide about half of the water the hotel needs, Delaplaine said.

Jacque Hostler-Carmesin, the Rancheria's CEO, updated the water situation – she said the drill-down is at 100 feet and that with conservation measures, the hotel's water consumption estimate has dropped.

The new well is expected to provide "an adequate supply of water for peak usage," she continued. She described the tribe as "a very strong partner with the city" and one that has contributed over $900,000 to the city's infrastructure.

Noting that state Governor Gavin Newsom has issued a formal apology to tribes for "how they've been treated in the ARCATA –Maureen McGarry, an Arcata artist and art educator, went to the Lights for Liberty vigil for refugees in July.

She came home "frustrated." "I wanted to do something," she said.

What she did do was to search the Internet, finding a nonprofit organization in San Diego called Border Angels.

This group of volunteers is best known for their work of carrying water bottles into the desert for thirsty immigrants to find.

But they do much more, including free immigration counseling, education and advocacy, day laborer outreach, and border rescue stations.

McGarry read the group's online newsletter and decided to participate in their Caravan of Love, a regular, twice-monthly event of volunteers carpooling to deliver necessities, supplies, and moral support to migrants in Tijuana shelters.

"I can't carry water," she said. "I could cook or do crafts with the kids. I took the chance of calling." She and fellow teacher Cindy Kuttner, who have known each other "since the early '70s," planned to drive two vehicles loaded with diapers, art supplies, toothbrushes and toothpaste, water bottles, books, and toys to join in the caravan on July 27. Word got passed around the county quickly, as it often does, and the donations poured in to an overflowing table in Arcata City Hall. SCRAP Humboldt gave lots of art supplies as well. Generous donors also gave cash.

The two women left Arcata on July 25, picked up McGarry's brother-

KHSU partners with Sacramento station

HUMBOLDT STATE UNIVERSITY

ARCATA – Humboldt State University has recently signed a short-term, interim agreement with Capital Public Radio in Sacramento for programming assistance with KHSU Public Radio. The agreement allows KHSU to continue airing national and state programming as the university considers various approaches for KHSU's future.

As a next step, HSU will be assessing options for maintaining KHSU as a vital public service radio station and ensuring its alignment with the university's teaching mission.

Under the interim agreement, Capital Public Radio will provide technical and engineering support, oversee programming from National Public Radio content providers, and serve as designated station manager. The agreement is through the end of October, but may be extended if both parties agree.

Looking ahead, one of the options Humboldt is considering is joining partnership discussions now underway between Capital Public Radio and North State Public Radio

Start getting ready now to not bring your dog to next month's 46th Annual North Country Fair

NORTH COUNTRY FAIR
ARCATA – The 46th North Country Fair takes place on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 21 and 22 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Arcata Plaza. This free and family-friendly festival features 170 art and craft vendors, three music and entertainment stages, local food booths, activities for kids and a daily parade at 1 p.m.
Bring your two-legged friends and families, but please leave your dogs and pets at home.
The theme for the 46th Annual North Country Fair is "Solidarity." A fundamental need for humanity is interdependence. We are united through common interests and objectives during these trying times. We stand together as diverse beings, neighbors and artists to create and support our community. We live in solidarity with our neighbors, our community, our nation, and our planet. Ross Perot recognized that, "One voice is tiny, and alone it cannot be heard above the din of politics as usual. The peoples' voice, when it cries as one, is a great roar."
The North Country Fair has also been leading the way in zero waste event efforts, inspiring other events locally and regionally to join the reusable and refillable revolution. Each year we divert more waste from the landfill and we are working on systems to meet new goals!

We ask that all attending help us by bringing your own pint cup for beer and a refillable bottle for water and refrain from bringing in waste from off-site. All items are sorted and weighed—so please take those disposable diapers, throwaway coffee cups, and plastic water bottles back home with you.
Bring your reusable cups, but not your pups!
The All Species Parade will take place on Saturday, led by the Northcoast Environmental Center. Dress up in your favorite animal, creature, or species costume and join in on the fun!
A free costume-making workshop will be held prior to the Fair at The Sanctuary at 13th and J streets on Friday, Sept. 20 at 6 p.m., during Arts!Arcata.
The Annual Samba Parade lead by Samba da Alegria will take place on Sunday at 1 p.m. and always promises to be a highlight of the Fair. The weekend will showcase over 20 live local acts including a full schedule of dancers and entertainers.
The North Country Fair is brought to you by The Same Old People, a nonprofit group of community members dedicated to presenting this arts and crafts, and community-centered festival for years to come. northcountryfair.org

Before any proposal advances, the district wants to receive input from neighbors. Also at tonight's meeting, the committee will discuss the status of the Botanical Garden at Hiller Park. According to MCSD Recreation Director Lesley Frisbee, Mad River Rotary recently hired a crew to rehabilitate the garden. Dead plants and weeds were removed, and new weed cloth and an irrigation system were installed. The committee will also discuss the Community Garden at Pierson Park. Committee member John Kulstad wants to discuss the possibility of hosting and event or workshop for gardeners. The committee continues its discussion regarding to Statewide Park Development and Community Revitalization Program Grant. The district is applying for a $3.8 million grant at building a skate park at Pierson Park, renovate the Pierson Park playground, construct a basketball court near the Teen Center, expand Azalea Hall to include additional office and classroom space, renovate bathrooms, improve park landscaping and other park improvement projects.

MCSD veteran Greg Orsini stepping down after 29 years

McKINLEYVILLE COMMUNITY SERVICES DISTRICT
McKINLEYVILLE – Gregory Orsini, general manager of the McKinleyville Community Services District (MCSD) gave his notice of retirement at the Board of Directors Meeting held on Aug. 7, 2019. He has served the district for over 29 years.

Orsini has worked with MCSD since November of 1990, a special district that maintains the water, sewer, streetlights, parks and recreation and library facilities for the community of McKinleyville.

MCSD serves an approximate population of 16,500 persons with 7,300 water customers and 6,400 sewer customers.

Orsini's tenure with MCSD began with his hire as a utility worker 1 in 1990; his promotion to director of operations in 2002; his 2012 appointment as an interim general manager; and his appointment in 2013 as permanent general manager.

Orsini brought a unique perspective for the purposes, benefits and hands-on operation of a special services district.

His experience includes many capital projects where he functioned as the project manager, including water tank preservation and maintenance, wastewater treatment plant improvements and a water booster station project, all of which were completed on-time and on budget. In his capacity as general manager, he is directly responsible for multi-million dollar operating and capital budgets with a track record for fiscally sound management.

Recently completed projects include the McKinleyville Teen & Community Center, a 7,000 square foot facility for teen activities that includes a full commercial kitchen and a recently completed $75 million upgrade to the Wastewater Management Facility.

Greg has been active in California Special Districts Association since 2013, serving on various committees and currently serves on the Executive Committee as the Board immediate past president, previously as president in 2018 and vice president in 2017 and the treasurer in 2015 and 2016.

In addition to Greg's service to his community as a member of the MCSD team he is also active in the Mad River Rotary of McKinleyville.

Over the next few months, the Board of Directors will be reviewing a succession plan and deciding the process of moving forward in the search for a new General Manager. Mr. Orsini's retirement will be effective July 17, 2020, which will give time for a smooth transition.

RN&SP restoration and removal docs posted

REDWOOD NATIONAL AND STATE PARKS

ORICK — Redwood National and State Parks has completed its conservation planning process for two restoration projects; the Greater Prairie Creek Ecosystem Restoration Project (GPC), and the Lower B500 Road Removal Project (B500).

The decision to implement each project is recorded in a Finding of No Significant Impact (FONSI) pursuant to NEPA, and in a Notice of Determination pursuant to CEQA for the GPC project.

The GPCERP will implement restoration across 9,200 acres in the Prairie Creek watershed including both State and National Park lands with some work beginning in the fall of 2019.

The Lower B500 project will remove 0.8 mile of logging haul road and eliminate the potential for sediment delivery into the lower reach of Larry Damm Creek. The work is expected to begin on Sept. 16, 2019, and take approximately one month to complete.

Copies of the Greater Prairie Creek FONSI may be downloaded from parkplanning.nps.gov/GPC. Copies of the Lower B500 Road Removal FONSI may be downloaded from parkplanning.nps.gov/LowerB500.

A hardcopy of the either FONSI may be requested by contacting Leonel Arguello at (707) 465-7780 or via e-mail at leonel_arguello@nps.gov.

KHSU | More local journalism?

in Chico. Capital Public Radio and North State Public Radio announced in late July that they are exploring ways to work together to expand local journalism and tell more of Northern California's stories to the audiences they serve.

One option under consideration is a Public Service Operating Agreement (PSOA), which would formalize cost-sharing for programming and management.

Like KHSU, all of the stations that would be part of that agreement are affiliated with a campus of the California State University system. Through a PSOA, the stations would build on the unique strengths and local coverage of their respective campuses.

HSU President Tom Jackson has stressed that a key step before joining the PSOA discussions is clarifying Humboldt's overall goals for KHSU. Jackson wants to gather input from faculty and students to learn more about their interest in KHSU.

One thing he says he has heard frequently is the importance of the station's presence and news role in connecting communities stretching from Petrolia to Crescent City.

past,” Hostler-Carmesin appealed to the concept of social justice.

“Let’s change the past, let’s go forward in the future – support this tribe,” she said.

But Trinidad residents are deeply concerned about the hotel’s bluffside visual impact and they questioned whether water supply is there.

Ted Pease of the Humboldt Alliance for Responsible Planning community group said he was speaking for Trinidad residents and visitors who have expressed “consternation over allowing this kind of coastal development.”

He summed up the reaction by quoting someone he’d encountered at Murphy’s Market earlier in the week. “How can they do that?” said a woman right behind me in the check-out line and that’s still the question – how indeed,” he said.

The controversy’s effects are intense. Opposition to the project was described as including “prejudice, both blatant and subversive, and accusations that are misguided, self-serving and sometimes outright lies,” said Shirley Laos, the Rancheria’s government affairs coordinator.

Commissioners were uncomfortable with having to make decisions affecting tribal development. Commissioner Mike Wilson, Humboldt County’s third district supervisor, acknowledged Laos’ comments, saying, “Tribal members have endured some pretty patronizing bullshit in what they’ve been dealing with – I want to recognize that’s a real thing.”

But he would come under similar criticism himself, after he proposed adding a requirement to demonstrate that the hotel wouldn’t be beyond the capacity of local firefighting services.

Asked to the podium by one of the commissioners, Hostler-Carmesin said, “You’re really questioning the tribe’s integrity at providing fire (services) and I don’t think that’s necessary.”

Wilson agreed to withdraw his request and a majority of commissioners, including Wilson, approved confirming the project’s consistency provided that the new water source is proven to be adequate or an agreement is worked out for city water.

Earlier, a motion to limit the hotel’s height to 40 feet failed in a close vote, with Wilson in the minority who supported doing that.

The hotel’s height will be 65.5 feet at its south end and 78.5 feet at its north end.

When he spoke during public comment, Fifth District Supervisor Steve Madrone supported a lower height for the hotel and warned that wells are “not reliable and not sustainable” due to seismic activity. If it holds, the consistency determination avoids potential for litigation and secures the tribe’s federal loan guarantee.

Risky investment

On Aug. 7, the commission balanced the threat of sea level rise against the need to invest in U.S. Highway 101 safety improvements.

The California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) has been planning the work on the U.S. Highway 101 stretch between Arcata and Eureka since 1999.

At issue is the danger posed by six uncontrolled median crossings. The worst of them is at the Indianola Cutoff.

Caltrans plans to construct an underpass interchange there, to address a collision rate that’s 200 percent above average.

Other safety elements include the complete closure of four median crossings and a northbound lane traffic light at Airport Road.

The project’s most pressing dilemma is its potentially limited lifespan.

The 101 is already vulnerable to flooding – a 2005 storm caused flooding that triggered an emergency declaration – and sea level rise is expected to make it worse and more frequent.

During a lengthy public comment period, business owners near the Indianola Cutoff and other areas of the highway used terms like “death trap” to describe the Indianola crossing. The need to improve safety wasn’t in doubt but the timing of the project’s sea level rise planning was.

The conditions of the permit called for a collaborative analysis of options to deal with sea level rise to be done by 2030.

If floods occur anywhere in U.S. Highway 101 travel areas four times in a year, the plan will have to be done within a year.

Jennifer Savage of the Surfrider Foundation noted that Caltrans expects monthly flooding of the highway’s southern stretch by 2030. “We shouldn’t need to wait for dangerous flooding to respond to an emergency that we know is already underway,” she said.

She added, “When the highway is flooded, it’s clearly unsafe” and risks will “exponentially” increase when traffic is re-routed to roads like Old Arcata Road.

Ralph Faust, a Bayside resident who worked as the commission’s general counsel for 20 years and was a county planning commissioner, warned against reinforcing and raising dikes to deal with seal level rise, saying that “marine habitat is at risk here.”

Wilson called for expedited planning. “The timeframe that’s set forth here will put us behind the ball, not ahead of the ball,” he said.

Most commissioners voted to approve the permit, changing the sea level rise plan’s deadline to 2025 and requiring annual monitoring reports instead of the bi-annual reporting recommended by staff.

The permit’s conditions include a directive to “avoid reliance on hard shoreline armoring.”

The project will result in the fill of 10.25 acres of wetlands, mitigated by removing invasive Spartina plants from 179 acres of wetlands.

To mitigate visual impacts, Caltrans has taken action to remove 17 billboards.Four remain but Caltrans Project Manager Jeff Pimentel said the agency has “exhausted” its options for getting them removed.

The project’s infrastructure work includes replacement of Jacoby Creek Bridge. Construction is set to begin next year and continue through 2026.

OLD ARCATA ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

The City of Arcata Building and Engineering Department invites members of the community to join them at a neighborhood meeting for an update and discussion about the City’s Old Arcata Road Improvements Project Thursday, Aug. 15 at 5:30 p.m. at the Bayside Community Hall, 2297 Jacoby Creek Road in Bayside. Old Arcata Road is a significant travel route for Arcata and the Bayside community. The road acts as an alternative route and an oversized load route for U.S. Highway 101, provides access to important facilities including Sunny Brae Middle School, Jacoby Creek School, the Bayside Post Office and it provides access to unincorporated areas. Currently, Old Arcata Road regularly experiences motorists travelling at high speeds, a large portion of the pavement within the project area is in poor condition, and there are limited pedestrian and bicyclist facilities making it a challenging road to travel. The Old Arcata Road Improvements Project has been in the works since 2016, and City staff is looking forward to providing an update to the public on their progress. All interested community members and neighborhood residents are welcome to attend.

communities will have to rely on reserve supplies, with water pressure likely temporarily reduced.

Arcata has approximately 3 million gallons of reserve water storage, McKinleyville about 5 million, and Eureka about 20 million.

The final phase of maintenance will occur on Wednesday, Sept. 25., when a tank inlet valve is replaced. This will require a total cutoff of water supplies to municipal customers. However, one million gallons is being reserved exclusively for fire protection during the maintenance effort.

The district supplies water to residential and business customers in the cities of Arcata, Blue Lake and Eureka, plus McKinleyville and Humboldt Community Services Districts, Jacoby Creek Water District, the Manila Community Services District, the town of Samoa and others.

City of Arcata press release

Arcata, CA, August 9, 2019 – The City of Arcata is asking Arcata residents to conserve water while Humboldt Bay Municipal Water District makes scheduled improvements in August and September.

Humboldt Bay Municipal Water District supplies Arcata with water, and they have scheduled valve replacements at their facility on Wednesday, August 14, Wednesday, September 18 and Wednesday, September 25 from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Due to the work required for this project, Arcata’s water supply will be shut down while the work is taking place. Customers may notice a small decrease in water pressure along with a slight increase in chlorine residual in their water during this time.

The City is encouraging residents to conserve water to maintain an adequate water supply and ensure fire protection reserves during these shutdown periods.

We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause to community members. For more information, please call (707) 825-2129.

Pew! Pew! Pew! – feel the sting of my pellet gun, you cars

HUMBOLDT COUNTY SHERIFF’S OFFICE
McKINLEYVILLE – On Thursday, Aug. 8 at about 11:10 a.m., the Humboldt County Sheriff’s Office received a call of a man with a gun on the 1600 block of Sutter Rd., in McKinleyville.

It was reported that a male subject was shooting at vehicles that were passing by. Deputies immediately responded to the area and located the subject who was still on scene.

Deputies were able to quickly and safely detain the subject and secure the gun, which was located in his pocket. Although the gun had no identifying markings and appeared to be an actual firearm, it was later determined to be a CO2 -owered pellet gun.

While on scene, deputies spoke to other victims who said the subject had fired the gun at them as well. There were no injuries sustained during the incident.

Tyler Godwin, 32, was arrested for charges relating to the brandishing of a firearm.

Ground broken on slightly mysterious new futsal court

CITY OF ARCATA
ARCATA COMMUNITY CENTER – Construction to build a city-owned futsal court at the Arcata Sports Complex is currently underway.

In 2015, an anonymous donor graciously provided funds through the Humboldt Area Foundation (HAF) to support the design, construction and ongoing maintenance of a community futsal court in Arcata. On behalf of the anonymous donor, HAF, the Mad River Youth Soccer League (MRYSL) and Greenway Partners asked the City to build an outdoor futsal court at the Arcata Sports Complex dedicated exclusively to drop-in play.

The project proponents’ primary mission was to support City infrastructures that “build community through the game of soccer and promote ‘the beautiful game’ as a free egalitarian activity that can be played by anyone, anytime regardless of economic status, ethnicity, age, gender or ability, free of coaches, administrators or overseers, so players have the freedom to choose how, where and when the game can be played. And crucial to this is trust in our community, giving the community the opportunity to practice sharing, cooperation and kindness with one another. That people of all different walks of life, cultures, ages, genders - friends and strangers come together to PLAY is a beautiful thing, and the point.”

Since the Arcata City Council approved this request, City staff has partnered with MRYSL, HAF and Greenway Partners to design the futsal court. The City has contracted with The Danco Group for this project and construction will be active behind the Arcata Community Center between the Arcata Sports Complex soccer and softball fields.

Work will take place Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on some days the contractor will extend work hours from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

On the days of scheduled work, community members are asked to follow all safety instructions within the project area. Construction is expected to be completed by November.

The City would like to thank the anonymous donor for their wonderful contribution to our community that Arcata residents and visitors will enjoy for many years to come.

If challenges are encountered with this project, please contact Larry Gonzales at The Danco Group at (707) 499-1979 or the City of Arcata at (707) 845-3325.

For more information about this project, please visit cityofarcata.org or call (707) 825-2128.

RCEA sets Humboldt’s clean energy future

EUREKA – The Redwood Coast Energy Authority (RCEA) is updating its guiding strategic document and is seeking public input and support in the process. Workshops will take place over the coming months and the community is also encouraged to submit written comments.

RCEA’s Comprehensive Action Plan for Energy (“CAPE”) details strategies that specifically address regional energy planning and coordination, programs for energy customers, low-carbon transportation, and energy generation and utility services.

The energy landscape in Humboldt County has changed over the past seven years, and strategies within RCEA’s original 2012 Comprehensive Action Plan for Energy need to be updated to align with this new landscape. The updated plan, which will include RCEA’s goal of 100% clean and renewable electricity by 2025, will include input from the county’s Climate Action Plan development and community outreach.

RCEA is updating high-level CAPE strategies, consolidating and incorporating several of its other strategic planning documents into the CAPE, and developing quantitative targets including RCEA’s power mix make-up for the next ten years.

Comments on the CAPE are encouraged during the draft development and comment period schedule below. For more information on the calendar and workshops, please contact the Redwood Coast Energy Authority at (707) 269-1700. Meeting agendas, schedule updates, and additional meeting details will be posted on RCEA’s website.

All Board of Director meetings are held at the Humboldt Bay Municipal Water District Office, 828 Seventh St., Eureka. The Community Advisory Committee meeting is at RCEA’s office, 633 Third St. Eureka.

Caravan of Love | 109 degrees inside refugee shelter

er Jim in the Bay Area as the third driver, and planned to be back on July 30.

It was a whirlwind trip with unexpected consequences. It was also a journey that left McGarry wanting to do it again.

The group arrived at a shelter for women and children from Central America, a metal building with a kitchen area, an eating area with tables, and a section filled with row after row of tents, each one home to a family.

TEAM ROGERS Betsy Rogers, her daughter Phoebe and her son Owen bring diapers, wipes, vitamins, and books for Maureen McGarry’s caravan to Tijuana. More on McGarry’s journey in future issues. JANINE VOLKMAR | UNION

“It was around 109 degrees inside,” McGarry said.

McGarry asked the person in charge if she could do some art projects with the children. “The woman spoke in rapid Spanish and soon all the seats at the tables were filled with around 40 children, yelling and pounding on the tables.”

“I asked my brother to get out all the art supplies as fast as he could. Of course they had been packed at the very front of the truck.”

McGarry explained that since the children were Central American, the Mexican authorities would not let them leave the building. “They have no country,” she said.

Their pent-up energies of not being allowed outside to play erupted at the prospect of fun.

Once the supplies were handed around, they quieted down and painted or drew on the boards McGarry had prepared ahead of time, by taping watercolor paper to pieces of cardboard.

“We were short of brushes,” she said, “but we had markers and crayons. I want to go back with lots more brushes.”

“The best moment was when we were standing in the middle of this room with everybody occupied, even the volunteers who had driven down. It gave every one something to do. It was an art event,” she said.

Later, McGarry wanted to take a photograph of a poignant sight but did not.

“All the moms were lined up on folding chairs. The look on their faces was one of hopelessness. I wanted to take a picture but I didn’t. I wanted to preserve their dignity,” she said. “I’ll never forget seeing them.”

McGarry knew her situation was different. “We’re just a bunch of gringos who went down for the day. We got to go back to San Diego and sleep in a hotel room and take showers.”

The three volunteers delivered supplies with the caravan to two other shelters. One was in a woman’s home, where the woman fed the refugees in shifts in her dining room.

There were 20 cars in the caravan and they went through customs as a group, under the care of Border Angels volunteers. “They called us compañeros,” McGarry said, “which made us feel great. They were the kindest people and they watched out for us.”

Humboldt County people had also donated money, some of which paid for gas. The rest was donated to Border Angels. “They told us it would pay for food and utilities for two weeks at the shelter. Those are tangible real things,” she said. “For every twenty bucks that got handed to us, it saved someone’s life.”

McGarry would like to go again and is thinking about starting a chapter of Border Angels locally. After all, she left something near and dear to her in San Diego.

Her old truck.

“It was a moment of truth. My old truck had over 305 thousand miles on it. I’d been waiting for it to pass the 300 thousand mile mark. I even took a picture of it when it did. I wondered, where will it be when it goes? It was on a quiet street in Tijuana.”

The truck seriously overheated and would not run. Even though she was offered help with getting it to a mechanic, McGarry decided it was time. She signed the paperwork over to Border Angels. They knew a mechanic and were thrilled at having a truck that they could fix and then haul supplies in.

“It has a new life,” McGarry said.

Booze-bamboozled brainlock begets reboot

• Wednesday, July 31 11:52 a.m. When someone left their large black truck with two children inside idling for 20 minutes outside a Sunny Brae laundromat, a random passerby volunteered a yelling-included cost-benefit analysis of the decision.

1:21 p.m. A cow in an F Street field didn't appear to have any food or water.

3 p.m. A man in a green shirt followed someone to an F Street business, then sat outside "making crow noises," just becaws.

5:54 p.m. A person who makes use of an oxygen tank said someone must be tampering with the gassy canister, since it was freely "shooting out air." But when he actually needs a hit of O2, it's unavailable.

• Thursday, August 1 12:15 a.m. Two determined cats on a hot, thin Samoa Boulevard roof again tried to burrow their way into an apartment through a window screen to get at a resident's pet kitty.

• Friday, August 2 1:48 a.m. A blue jeep went the wrong way on H Street downtown, further bamboozling its pickled pilot with the unexpected sight of oncoming traffic. This induced a state of shock, awe and brainlock, with the SUV coming to a halt at Ninth and H streets as driver.exe rebooted their reality paradigm and a witness called police.

1:55 a.m. A vehicle weaving around at Seventh and H streets drove the wrong way, and not very well, either. It was last seen aimed roughly west-bound on Seventh Street, but an officer tracked it down and arrested the driver on a DUI charge.

10:50 a.m. A bike-borne parking lot-snipe – presumably one of those lanky fellers wearing a sideways baseball cap with a giant bill, with dingy trousers and neglected grooming riding a kids' stingray with an incongruous pink basket and probably spitting where people have to walk – wheeled around a grunge nugget-embroidered Valley West shopping center, taunting the security guard with bluff and bluster by sneeringly refusing to leave, but of course doing so at the slightest whiff of actual consequences, and then spitting some more.

11:14 a.m. A mirthsome type with abundant free time made an memorable disturbance at a Valley West food place/home of honest goodness, impressing employees with jolly jests and japes about pissing on the store's floor. He was arrested before doing so.

12:28 p.m. The direct approach: stroll into someone's Fifth Street house, grab their wallet, then go out and start running up charges on the plastic.

12:30 p.m. Someone vandalized a school greenhouse, leaving human waste in various locations.

9:06 p.m. Several men were seen trying to pull a woman out of a car and hustle her into a rancid Valley West motel room, but she broke free and got away.

10:38 p.m. Human was pitted against human in a Valley West parking lot as they argued over that most rare and prized quarry, a shopping cart.

• Saturday, August 3 3:08 a.m. A missing cell phone ping-ping-pinged not to the Yangtze River, but to a Valley West motel room, where the owner stood by for a police person to arrive.

10:06 a.m. A guy riding a bike on L.K. Wood Boulevard while pulling another brand new shiny and seatless bike could be nothing, or something... sinister.

11:32 a.m. A farmers market plagued weekly by dog-owner arrogance now had a similar but serpentine problem with a man carrying a snake around. Taking a cue from the discourteous dogsters, he of course refused to leave when asked, until a big grown-up police officer came and told him about the Arcata Municipal Code.

8:46 p.m. It was as if a loutish loudie threatening fellow lodgers at the rancid Valley West motel when they complained about the noise would in some way reduce the sound levels, or make the annoyed guests OK with it. In a stunning development, it turned out that the solution was to be found with a twirl of the volume control.

• Sunday, August 4 7:39 a.m. The Westwood Village neighborhood has at times hosted some uncannily energetic residents, now including they who blow off fireworks at 4 a.m. and rev up the power mower before 8 a.m.

8:45 a.m. A child with a nut allergy went into shock at an I Street restaurant.

9:06 a.m. Someone fell and suffered a head injury and seizures at a Plaza hotel.

10:16 a.m. Like a bike lock would stop anyone.

11:01 p.m. An Alliance Road resident reported that someone in Claremont posted a selfie with him holding up a rifle, captioned, "Double barrel deplorable it's Trump time." The caller was advised to notify that town's police.

• Monday, August 5 6:34 a.m. A man duly discharged from the hospital refused to leave its cozy confines. Were anyone to notify police, he said, he would "beat their ass." And yet his ass-related oaths were quickly disregarded.

9:06 a.m. Sometime over the last two weeks, a large slab was cut out of a redwood stump out back of a Diamond Drive residence.

10:16 a.m. An ornery sort strode into an 11th Street business and accused someone there of both flipping him off and cutting him off, all of this offing taking place a month ago, with the hair loss sufferer in red pants stewing about the slights ever since. He proposed another, more dire form of offing, by, in rather coy fashion, stating, "People disappear around here."

12:56 p.m. An abandoned sidewalk sofa at Ninth and K streets turned out to be a fold-a-bed, so a loungeabout in need of post-lunch zzz's extended the mattress and snuggled down for a nap.

4:31 p.m. A massive, red residential bus loomed at Ninth and K streets for days on end, its bleak bulk blotting out the sky and plunging those in the area into darkness and despair. And just one bus wasn't enough for the task – a second bus was attached to augment the oppressive wall of metal. Despite being present for weeks, when police responded to the scene, the double-trouble bifurcated bus blight was gone without a trace.

• Tuesday, August 6 1:30 p.m. A gentleman in his fifties, having attained the wisdom and life experience of five decades and well seasoned to view with calm bemusement life's passing parade, spent his afternoon riding around on a bike in red shorts and a tank top on Heindon Road, spraying passing cars with a squirt gun.

• Wednesday, August 7 3:40 a.m. Another home was entered and a wallet snabbed, this one on Chestnut Place.

4:38 p.m. After a pedestrian threw a blanket at a gray Buick, it sped away from Seventh and F streets, crossed the double line to swerve around a pedestrian and a crashy noise was heard. And yet, there was no sign of any wreckage.

4:50 p.m. A possibly drunk but highly patriotic traffic hazard sprung up outside a post office located at Old Arcata and Jacoby Creek roads. There, a bearded gent of some years set up some sort of display festooned with American flags that spilled out into the busy roadway.

10:32 p.m. Three plaid-jacketed figures roved Charles Avenue, peering in a window and possibly casing the 'hood for more plaid garments with which to accessorize their edgy superzero outfits.

A fishy Aquafarm

The July 31 article about Nordic Aquafarms asking for financial help from the Humboldt Bay Municipal Water District (HBMWD), the County of Humboldt, California and the Feds to build their proposed fish farm in Samoa started smelling fishy to me the more I read it.

Earlier this year, Nordic said they had thoroughly researched the entire West Coast and found that Humboldt Bay's Samoa site "... meets all of our criteria for building a safe, clean, and sustainable fish farm."

❖ LETTERS

Since fish need water to live in, I would think their research would have already included the quality of the fresh water that they were going to buy from HBMWD for their fish farm.

Wrong. Nordic's president Erik Heim said last week that, "the freshwater source [from the Mad River] does have its challenges in terms of turbidity and bacterial spikes during parts of the year – and it's not suitable for aquaculture."

He went on to say that the feasibility of the project will require money from all sources, by the way funded with our tax dollars, to fix the problems they seem to have just recently identified. Bogus. It would have taken one hour of Nordic's time to get the last 50 years of turbidity and bacterial levels from HBMWD if they really wanted to know all this when the project was first proposed.

Heim also asserted that Nordic didn't know there were earthquakes or tsunamis in the area and they also want our tax dollars to mitigate for those potential problems. And, somehow Nordic didn't know that the Samoa site had any environmental problems, so, of course they also want more money for toxic cleanup. Everything smelled like roses earlier this year when Nordic Aquafarms proposed investing $400,000,000 to get this project going, now it smells like really stinky fish. What I've read about Nordic Aquafarms' other fish farms in Scandinavia and Maine suggests that they are not the environmental stewards they make themselves out to be. This was a corporate scam from the beginning and the sensible thing is to say "NO!"

Corruption exposed

It's been a number of years perhaps, 30 or so. I had helped to expose a major corporate government fraud while an elected leader of a state employees organization.

The California Youth Authority and the whole department of corrections was misusing government funds on a grand scale.

Employees wanted that investigated and they set out to pursue that objective. much of the state government wanted to be rid of all of us who were calling for the investigation.

We had not been successful but one by one, those of us calling for the investigations were being eliminated from state service through a variety of shenanigans.

In my particular case, they claimed that I had gone AWOL, but it was a clear fact that I was then ordered on sick leave.

State officials were attempting a most abusive fraud, (one of many), in my case and they planned to make it stick. They would use the pretext that I had absented myself from state service, while in fact I was known to be on official medical leave.

My case would ultimately appear on the agenda of the Supreme Court of California. The actual day that this outrageous case was to be heard, would prove most interesting.

The governor, then already Jerry Brown would place the full three court justices on leave for that one day and his stand ins were to sit and hear my case.

They would rule as planned; sick leave or no sick leave, whereabouts known or unknown-the Supreme Court would rule that I was in fact AWOL from state service.

This is not the kind of criminal behavior that can be tolerated in our state government. It is a clear example of how an honest government has been allowed to turn bad beyond measure.

I much like your stated of the people, for the people commitment. With that at it's core I belatedly forward this message for your expressed attentions to be forthcoming.

A more complete telling of this story was addressed in the matter of the Mad River Union dated July 31, 2015 (available at this URL: madriverriverunion.com/dave-goggin-surveilled-for-life-after-a-500-ripoff).

Effectively fighting white supremacy

I probably speak for everyone when I express how agonized I feel over the recent mass shootings in Gilroy, Ohio, and El Paso. My heart goes out to the impacted families, their extended communities, and all of us who see the writing on the wall that white supremacy violence will probably continue.

Those of us who are of color, Indigenous, LGBTQ+, Muslim or Jewish in this country have experienced the violence or are living with the historical trauma of it. My ancestors have resisted against it since the inception of colonization.

Today, I turn the tragedy into a personal opportunity to re-pledge my commitment to fight against racial violence (I include poverty, lack of opportunity, exploitation, criminalization and other manifestations of structural racism as "racial violence") and to continue to fight for racial justice.

Trying to stop Trump from inciting racial hatred is probably not the way to go, because I see him as a symptom of a larger, historical problem, and, understanding his motivations, it would probably be a waste of time.

I must act locally and push for racial justice where I live, in Humboldt County. I must have the courage to call out, and change, the practices, institutions, and historical patterns that are founded on racial superiority.

How will I do this?

- I'll continue to remind the dominant culture that communities of color, and other non-conforming communities, experience our County in unique ways, and our experiences deserve to be trusted and supported.
- I'll continue to hold our institutions accountable for their inaction in changing race-related inequities.
- I'll continue to offer a race analysis even when others act confronted or uncomfortable even talking about racism.
- I'll defer to communities on how I can offer solidarity and support their leadership.
- I'll continue to organize with communities that deserve better than just paternalistic responses.

Of course, I know I can't do this alone. Here in Humboldt, Indigenous Peoples have already done so much to change habits and practices to ones that encourage understanding and compassion, instead of hatred and scapegoating. Together, we have the power to create a community in which "othering" becomes impossible, and nobody is dehumanized, devalued, or criminalized because of who we are.

Justice for the shooting victims is Justice for Josiah Lawson. Justice for the shooting victims is Justice for migrants and Indigenous Peoples.

In honor of the recent killings, I hope you will also make a personal pledge.

Giant steps backward and forward

“There’s just no percentage in remembering the past, it’s time you learned to live again at last. Come with me, leave yesterday behind, and take a giant step outside your mind.”
— from Take a Giant Step by Goffin and King

There’s some irony, since there’s nostalgia involved and “Take a Giant Step” is about resisting remembrance of things past in favor of looking forward, but it takes me back — around a half a century.

The song was the title track for a Taj Mahal album, Giant Step/De Ole Folks at Home, released in 1969, the year I moved to Humboldt to attend college, a giant step for me, and that album was on my turntable a bunch.

By the way, the song was originally written by Gerry Goffin and Carole King for The Monkees in 1966 and was the B-side to the band’s big hit Last Train to Clarksville, of course I was too hip for Monkee-mania at the time. The very hip, Henry Saint Clair Fredericks, aka Taj first covered the tune with Rising Sons, with Ry Cooder. Taj made it his. The notion of taking big steps was perfect for me.

On Sunday, Aug. 18, incidentally the 50th anniversary of Woodstock, we mark the beginning of the next CenterArts Season with the Taj Mahal Quartet. He may or may not play Take a Giant Step, although I’m sure he’ll mention Woodstock (he played the 10th anniversary concert), but you can expect a mess of blues, and probably Checkin Up On My Baby, which shows up on the re-released Rolling Stones Rock and Roll Circus restoration with expanded soundtrack including Taj. Showtime is 8 p.m. at the retrofitted Van Duzer Theatre. Tickets available (last time I checked).

Of course nostalgia is big in the media at the moment, especially with the 2-hour PBS documentary, Woodstock, and an impossibly massive boxset, Woodstock—Back to the Garden: The Definitive 50th Anniversary Archive, spanning 38 CDs (and the failed concert).

Here in Humboldt, we have Lawnstock 2019, on what looks to be a sunny Sunday in Blue Lake’s Perigot Park. It’s an all-day music fest, a benefit for Ty-Ty Holt, a local boy diagnosed with Atypical Teratoid Rhabdoid Tumor threatening his brain. Yes, medical care threatens everyone’s pocket book. For now we have fundraisers and silent auctions. (Do you think healthcare-for-all might help? We’ll discuss that another day.)

The first Lawnstock was eight years ago in Zach and Margery Zwerdling’s front yard. As they put it, “A hat was passed to raise funds for the beneficiary of the year [always a kid]. The event grew over the years and since 2017 it has been located at Perigot Park.”

Like its name sake Woodstock, Lawnstock is diverse, this year more so than ever with Wild Abandon, The Gatehouse Well, Georgia Ruth Hellum-Willits with members of Absynth Quartet, Jenni & David and the Sweet Soul Band, Dynasty One, and Ghost Train.

It’s partially sponsored by Mercury Sky Records, Zach’s label, and coincidentally, four of the bands include Zach’s bassist son Nate. (Have you noticed that bass players tend to be in more than one band?) One more thing: Lawnstock 2019 will also be hosting the Arcata High Class of 1969 Reunion Picnic. Yes, it’s their 50th year anniversary too. Awesome.

The day before that (Saturday, Aug. 17,) also at Perigot Park, it’s return of the Blue Lake Music Festival, which is a tribute extravaganza with Jimi Jeff & The Gypsy Band playing Hendrix and more (at noon) followed by two retro-rock cover type outfits, Drinking Moonlight (1:30 p.m.), and The Movers and the Shakers (2:30 p.m.), then, Silver Hammer: the Beatles’ tribute band (4:30 p.m.), and The Miracle Show playing what else but G. Dead tunes.

More tributes? We got ‘em. The tribute-heavy Eureka Concert Series wraps up Thursday. Aug. 15, with Heartless - A Tribute to the Rock Band Heart. Now I have to admit, I was never an enthusiast, and can only think of one song they did (Crazy on You), but I suppose there are fans of the Wilson sisters out there, and heck, it’s free.

Then Friday, Aug. 16, in the Firewater Lounge at Cher-ae Heights Casino you can hear Full Moon Fever, Piet Dalmolen’s tribute to Tom Petty and The Heartbreakers.

At the Logger Bar Saturday night, another tribute, Shakey, plays “a wide range of Neil Young songs from the early days of Buffalo Springfield to Crazy Horse but leaning towards Neil’s heavier side,” sez Pete Ciotti.

Meanwhile, Saturday at the 123rd annual Humboldt County Fair (in Ferndale) there’s a Merv George Tribute on the midway stage to honor his memory with Merv’s son, Merv George Jr. performing with the Jimi Jeff Band. Not sure what time, but Jimi is playing in Blue Lake CIRCUS AND MORE Come to the Creamery Festival this weekend for giant puppets, music, a circus and more.

♦ CREAMERY FESTIVAL

Four days of fun

ARCATA PLAYHOUSE

ARCATA — The Creamery Festival, presented by the Arcata Playhouse, returns to Arcata’s historic Creamery District Thursday, Aug. 15 through Sunday, Aug. 18 with four days of events for the whole family. There’s always something for everyone at the Creamery Festival — here’s just a sampling of what’s in store this year:

Festivities open on Thursday, Aug. 15 at 7 p.m. with the first of six performances from Mendocino County’s own Flynn Creek Circus. Returning to Humboldt County for a fourth year, the popular nostalgic yet always fresh animal-free circus brings gasp-inducing top-quality acts to the Creamery district’s vintage big top tent. Be amazed by tightrope walkers, aerialists, jugglers, acrobats, and comedians in this year’s all-new Out of Hat show. More details and tickets are available from their website at flynn-creekcircus.com.

Friday, Aug. 16 from 6 to 9 p.m., the Creamery District will be abuzz with Third Friday fun, highlighting local artisans, cider, food, and music in a family-friendly market atmosphere. Music from the four-piece group, Frogbite will grace the Creamery Courtyard. Hopping from the depths of a murky pond on the side of a high hill in the heart of Humboldt County, Frogbite’s style varies from funky-jazzy to rock with a little retro thrown in for good measure. Blue Lake Music Festival makes summer festive

Janine Volkmar
MAD RIVER UNION

BLUE LAKE — Whoa, I might as well take my sleeping bag and move into Blue Lake’s lovely Perigot Park for the summer.

Really, I just put away the cake carrier and picnic supplies from Annie & Mary Day, from Buddy Brown Blues Fest, and more. Now here’s the latest way to celebrate what’s left of summer: the Blue Lake Music Festival on Saturday, Aug. 17 from noon to 8 p.m. in shady/sunny as you like, Perigot Park..

It’s all local music, local food and local adult beverages.

Organizer Marty Maskill is in his eighth year of putting on this five-band-filled festival complete with the extras: children’s area, vendors, artisans, and tables from your favorite non-profit groups.

Chief among those is Humboldt Veterans for Peace, Chapter 56, which is sponsoring the event.

An unnamed friend of mine who happens to play in one of the performing bands calls it “The Mortgages for Musicians festival.”

In a way, he’s correct. After expenses are covered, Maskill actually pays the bands some of the reasonably priced gate ($10 entry; kids 15 and under free) money. What a concept!

“Some people call it ‘The Marty Party,’” Maskill joked. He’s a musician who makes drums and wind instruments.”One of these days I’m going to still be a rock star,” he added, laughing. Even though he lives in Blue Lake he has yet to join that famed group of old-guys-doing-good-for-the-town, The Old Crows. But he may be working up to it.

Gates open at 11 a.m. with The Movers and the Shakers, Drinking Moonlight, Silver Hammer, Jimi Jeff & The Gypsy Band, and The Miracle Show keeping the dancers moving until the sun goes down.

Taco Truck La Barca and It’s Alive Kombucha will keep those dancers energized as will the snacks and baked goods for sale by the various participating non-profit groups. New World Water is donating water and Mad River Brewing Company, Six Rivers Brewery, and Lagunitas beer will be available for sale.

Maskill reminds folks to kindly leave the family dog at home.

Tickets are available at Wildberries Marketplace, People’s Records, The Works, and at the gate. For more information visit bluelakemusicfest.com.

SONG CONTEST WINNERS After reaching out to the local community, KEET received more than 25 submissions to its Stories from KEET Country: Telling Your Story in Song contest. The event was developed to support Ken Burns new 16-hour documentary series, Country Music, which will premiere on KEET starting Sept. 15. With so many fine entries, the judges struggled to make their final selections. Afterward, they said many of the submitted stories would have made great songs, but rules dictated that only the best three be chosen. The judges were Georgia Ruth Hellum, Rick Levin and Tracy Smith. Together with KEET, they are pleased to announce the following winning submissions:

- Tina Catalina Corcoran with her song, "I Rejoice When I Hear Your Voice."
- Charles Lilly with his song, "For the Sake of Moving On."
- Patrick Cleary with his song, "Fickle Heart."

Local country band Cadillac Ranch will craft tunes to accentuate and support the winning lyrics, ultimately performing them live at the Humboldt County Fair on the main stage on Saturday, Aug. 17 from 2 to 3 p.m.

LOGGER BAR Groove Shine will perform on Friday, Aug. 16 at 9 p.m. the Logger Bar, 510 Railroad Ave. in Blue Lake. Shakey will perform Neil Young covers at 9 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 17.

OBITUARY

Reuven (Ronald) Moore

April 16, 1958 – Aug. 4, 2019

Reuven (Ronald) Moore is survived by brothers Daniel and Joseph and sister Devorah, as well as countless friends throughout California, the New York area and Israel, who will miss him greatly.

Reuven's close friends in Humboldt County are too numerous to mention, but they all have been deeply affected by this caring and joyful man who inspired us with the example of a life filled with simplicity and regard for nature and other humans.

Reuven was known for his love of people, the earth, fresh air and cycling.

He was a kind and generous soul who shared his passion for outdoors, his time and his strength freely with others.

Reuven loved Yiddishkeit – his Jewish heritage and its many expressions – that reflected his many years from a young man in Flint, Michigan to adulthood living and learning in Yeshiva. He taught freely what he had learned: Jewish prayers, songs, wisdom and ethics as well as Hebrew and Yiddish.

Reuven was a longtime member of the Jewish community of Temple Beth El, Eureka where he studied and read from the Torah, attended services, enjoyed holidays and celebrated many joyous occasions.

Reuven also participated in and learned Torah and Talmud with Rabbi Eliyahu Cowen of Chabad of Humboldt.

Reuven loved the earth and treated it with great respect. He never owned a car, but walked and bicycled. He hiked, ate healthily and kept fit.

He promoted "eco-kosher" – the eating food that is not only kosher but also organically grown.

Reuven spoke kindly and positively about others and was quick to help anyone with a need.

Jewish tradition tells us that at any time there are 36 righteous souls living on the Earth. These are called "lamed-vavnik;" the 36. They are hidden and no one, not even themselves, know who they are. Some thought Reuven could be one of those 36. He was certainly a righteous man and his memory is for a blessing.

Museum Open House

The McKinleyville Community Pop-up Museum will be hosting an Open House on Friday, Aug. 16 from 5:30 to 8 p.m. to unveil the new Northcoast Railroad Exhibit. This exhibit features local train memorabilia, some never seen before, from McKinleyville's own Josh Buck.

The Open House event will also include the vibrant work of guest artists' and a silent auction of vintage household items to benefit the McKinleyville Senior Center. Plus, there will be kid's activities, snacks, community conversations and more! This is a free, family-friendly event. The museum is located next to the totem pole in the McKinleyville Shopping Center.

The Northcoast Railroad Exhibit by Josh

Buck includes photographs, relics and stories of the past from many of our local railroads including: the Northwestern Pacific Railroad; the Arcata & Mad River Railroad; the Pacific Lumber Company Railroad; the Hammond Lumber Company Railroad, and McKinleyville's narrow-gauge Humboldt Northern Railroad operated by Henry Sorensen on 40-acres in his backyard.

Buck, a substitute teacher and historian, has lived in McKinleyville since he was three years old. Having been a history major at Humboldt State University, Josh has dedicated much of his time to preserving the history of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad and the predecessor railroads of Humboldt County.

Trinidad hotel gets approval

The Cher-ae Heights Indian Community of the Trinidad Rancheria received conditional approval for its 100-room hotel project to be located next to the Sunset Restaurant and the Casino at last Thursday's California Coastal Commission meeting in the Wharfinger Building in Eureka.

The sovereign nation does not have to obtain the state's approval as it is governed through the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Department of the Interior, however, in an effort to give voice to the many Trinidad citizens who have packed the Trinidad Town Hall during city meetings and who filled the Wharfinger Building last week to standing room only capacity, CEO Jacque Hostler-Carmesin and the Tribal Council have sought the CCC's support. Jacque expressed gratitude to the commission for its vote.

The Trinidad Rancheria recently discovered a promising well on its land, however, it still seeks water from the City of Trinidad for its project. Mayor Steve Ladwig answered questions from the commissioners about studies underway by City Engineer GHD to determine long term availability of water from Luffenholtz Creek. Mayor Ladwig said that the study will be completed in late 2019 or early 2020.

Rancheria Chairman Garth Sundberg was one of the presenters in favor of the project. Joy Sundberg, Lisa Sundberg, Mark Sundberg, Shirley Laos, Dessa Gunning and other tribal leaders, Rancheria residents and employees spoke about development and employment possibilities.

Expressing concerns about the project relating to design and water capacity were Richard Johnson, Ted Pease, David Hankin, Don Allan, Jason Self, Carol Mone, Linda Long, Peter Co-han, Kimberly Tays, Fifth District Supervisor Steve Madrone and others.

Katrin Homan and many others spoke in favor of the project.

Mayor Ladwig, City Councilmember Jack West, and City Manager Eli Naffah were present to observe the proceedings along with BLM Interpretive Specialist Leisyka Parrott, Scott Baker, Bryce Kenny, Dennis Koutouzos, Elaine Weinreb, Zack Brown, Robert Hemsted, Rachel Sundberg, Ruby Rollings and many other Trinidad, Westhaven and Rancheria residents.

More planning will be performed on the part of the Trinidad Rancheria and the City of Trinidad, particularly concerning water availability, however, the vote of the California Coastal Commission has moved the hotel project closer to fruition.

Trinidad City Council

The Trinidad City Council will meet today, Wednesday, Aug. 14 at 6 p.m. in Trinidad Town Hall.

Among the agenda items are a resolution that celebrates the Trinidad Bay Art and Music Festival which began last weekend and continues Aug. 16, 17 and 18; consideration of updating the City's Code of Ethics, consideration of funding sources for a proposed solar project at Town Hall, and the possibility of changing the regular council meeting dates.

In other city business, the Planning Commission will meet on Wednesday, Aug. 21 at 6 p.m. and the Trinidad Trails Committee, which is still seeking a qualified resident to fill a vacancy, will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 20 at 4:30 p.m. in the Town Hall.

Westhaven Center for the Arts

Bryan Radzin, Writer in Residence at Westhaven Center for the Arts, 501 South Westhaven Drive, will lead a music, poetry and spoken word sharing session on Friday, Aug. 16 from 6 to 8 p.m. Budding musicians and writers welcome. There is a $2 to $5 suggested donation. Call (707) 616-8649 for information or email brr5@humboldt.edu.

Artist Deborah Kallish, who has her Newspaper Nudes and other works on exhibit, will host a meet and greet reception on Saturday, Aug. 17 from 1 to 4 p.m. Also on view are the drawings and ceramics by Lotus Monahan.

Roy King will lead a Gaia's Love group on Sunday, Aug. 18 from 10 to 11 a.m. followed by Song Village led by Seabury Gould from 1 to 3 p.m. Go to westhavencenter.org for more information on WCA events, art and fitness classes and workshops.

Death Cafe at Trinidad Library

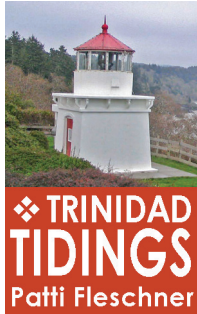

Samantha Everette, (707) 677-3577, will lead a Death Café discussion on the second Thursday of every month at Trinidad Library from 7 to 8:30 p.m. She writes: "At a Death Café, people, often strangers, drink tea and discuss death. Our objective is 'to increase awareness of death with a view to helping people make the most of their (finite) lives.'"

She adds that a "Death Café is a group directed discussion of death with no agenda, objectives or themes. It is a discussion group rather than a grief support or counseling session, with no intention of leading people to any conclusion, product or course of action." The next Death Café will take place on Thursday Sept. 12. Find out more at deathcafe.com/.

Also coming to the library

Trinidad author Glory Ralston will present a talk about her recent book, Found in the Woods, on Thursday, Sept. 19 at 7 p.m. in Trinidad Library. Save the date!

You have 30 CALENDAR DAYS after this summons and legal papers are served on you to file a written response at this court and have a copy served on the plaintiff. A letter or phone call will not protect you. Your written response must be in proper legal form if you want the court to hear your case. There may be a court form that you can use for your response. You can find these court forms and more information at the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), your county law library, or the courthouse nearest you. If you cannot pay the filing fee, ask the court clerk for a fee waiver form. If you do not file your response on time, you may lose the case by default, and your wages, money, and property may be taken without further warning from the court.

There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may want to call an attorney referral service. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site <http://www.altisource.com/MortgageServices/Default/Management/TrusteeServices.aspx> using the file number assigned to this case 2018-01923-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

Watch the Wild Weiner Walk

How many of our readers have dachshunds or doxie mixes? Our friends over at Wildberries Marketplace are celebrating their 25th anniversary this month and part of the fun will be the Wild Weiner Walk in honor of the late great Wildberries mascot Fred.

All doxies and their owners are invited to participate in the event on Saturday, Aug. 17 at 2 p.m. in the parking lot. There will be prizes in several different categories. Come on out with your little one and strut your mutt!

Several Redwood Pals dogs and shelter dogs recently attended Arts! Alive in Eureka for the opening of the dog art show Heel. The show will be up for all of August and September and is certainly worth a visit to the Studio Canvas + Clay Gallery at 233 F St. in Eureka. We had so much fun and the dogs were so well-behaved! Two stand-outs at the event were Finn (formerly Lumpy) and Clifford.

Finn has been with Redwood Pals Rescue for a couple of months now. We originally pulled him from the shelter to hold him for an owner who was not able to have him with her at that time. Now it turns out that she will not be able to take him back. Finn is such a great dog!

He has been staying with one of our volunteers and their dog. They say Finn is easy to have around – perfectly housebroken, quiet, good with the other dog and good company for an evening of reading or socializing. They have had four dogs and five kids in the house at one time and everyone got along well!

Finn is good on the leash and was the best behaved of all the dogs that we took to Old Town. Arts! Alive can be a little chaotic with noise, strangers and crowds, but he was unfazed and let everyone pet him as they passed by. He does love to be petted.

He is familiar with a variety of obedience skills such as sitting to be leashed up and the fosters say he is very responsive to training new skills. They are putting that to the test this week to see if they can teach him to tolerate nail-clipping, the one thing he has not liked. Other than that he is nearly perfect! We think Finn is about four or five years old. He is neutered and up to date on his vaccinations. Please contact us at redwoodpalsrescue@gmail.com or leave a clear voicemail at (707) 633-8842 if you would like to meet him.

Clifford represented the shelter dogs at the Arts! Alive event and did a fine job! Clifford is about 3 years old and wonderfully dog-social. Clifford went home for a test with volunteer Sue in the afternoon before the event as an evening outing requires a sleepover also.

She has three other male dogs and Clifford's visit was a huge success! He even gave the resident cat plenty of room after getting his curious nose popped... Clifford is good on the leash and very attentive to his handler.

He loves to be brushed or petted and is just all around good company. He likes his soft toys and volunteers say he can carry several in his mouth at once! Clifford knows "come" and "sit" and has nice overall manners. He is neutered, microchipped and up to date on his vaccinations.

Clifford is available through the Humboldt County Animal Shelter at 980 Lycoming Ave. in McKinleyville, which is open Monday through Friday. More information is available at (707) 840-9132.

OTTER TALK On Friday, Aug. 16, Humboldt State wildlife professor Jeff Black will give an update on "North Coast Otters: Merging Citizen Art & Science." This free public lecture, starting at 7:30 p.m. at the Arcata Marsh Interpretive Center, is sponsored by Friends of the Arcata Marsh. North Coast Otters will be a collection of unique pieces of otter art, which will be displayed at local businesses, festivals, galleries, schools, and other public areas. (FOAM is sponsoring a showing at the Interpretive Center.) Black will enlighten attendees about this intersection of art, nature and science. Besides otters, Black's research interests include Humboldt Bay waterfowl, Steller's Jays, and raptors. The HSU River Otter Citizen Science Project has been collecting sightings of river otters from watercourses in Humboldt, Del Norte, and adjacent counties since 1999. For more information, call (707) 826-2359.

Still looking for their forever families!

This week we'd like to shine a light on some of the kittens that have been with us the longest! Sammy, Smokey, Neville and Myrtle are known to shower affection on every visitor to the kitten room, but somehow they have yet to find their purr-fect match.

All four fabulous felines are approximately 4 months old and though they are still in the height of "kittenhood," they have settled into their unique personalities and are always up for a good nap on a lap.

Sammy (male) and Neville (male) are extremely loving and will often be the first to run to the door and say hello in the morning. Both boys are brown and black short-haired tabbies, but Neville is identifiable by his white legs and chest. Smokey (male) and Myrtle (female) are more independent than the other two, but they are equally charming and sweet when given even an ounce of attention.

COMPANION ANIMALS
Ayla Glim

Smokey is striking with his long black coat and Myrtle dresses to impress with her black and white tuxedo.

Please be aware that the animals featured here may have applications in the process of being reviewed.

If you are interested in a specific animal, please give us a call at (707) 826-PETS (7387) or come by to fill out an application. We recommend bringing your family or roommates with you to make sure it's a good fit for everyone!

All of the animals at Companion Animal Foundation have been spayed/neutered, microchipped, treated for parasites, and are up to date on their vaccines.

The Hum | 'limitless conceptualization & extreme sound'

earlier that day. The fair actually starts Thursday, but this sounds like a good day, including a dunk tank featuring local Supervisors somewhere near the racetrack. Horse race post time 2:07 p.m.

Drifting off of tributes and back in time, at the Miniplex Wednesday, Aug. 14, it's Action Beat, a UK noise-rock band fronted by GW Sok, a Dutch post-punk ex-The Ex, with backing from an army of guitarists and three drummers.

How they will fit on the Miniplex stage? Who knows. They're on tour with Opening Bell from NYC, home of Wall Street. Fortuna's Car Made of Glass opens, they're a post-grind quintet influenced by "limitless conceptualization & extreme sound."

Somehow related is the "How The West Was Whomped 10 Year Anniversary" that Wednesday up the way at The Jam with out-of-towner Commodo from UK, and The Whomp All-Stars, which is

"as many DJs that we can fit on the stage." They'll be celebrating Psy Fi's 30th birthday. ("This is a western-themed event. Dress up is highly encouraged.") For the uninitiated, Whomp Wednesdays is all about bass-heavy EDM.

At Outer Space Thursday, Aug. 15 (7 to 10 p.m.), an all ages show with Meernaa, a "celestial and soulful" synth band from Oakland, plus Mouth Painter, a "folk/exotica" trio Portland (with a musical saw), San(s) Kazakgascar Solo from Sacramento, described as like a "soundtrack to a cheesy '60s exploitation flick," and last but not least, Humboldt's own Mister Moonbeam, who is oh so much more than a one-man-band.

Saturday at Outer Space (7-10 p.m.) Flexing, a "heavy post-punk" outfit from Corvallis and Firstwife, a noise rock solo project from Arcata.

And at Blondie's, also Saturday, it's alt. this-and-that by locals Velvet Worms (8 p.m.) plus Sanguine Knight out of Long Beach with "retro-future vibes" (9 p.m.) and Arcata noisiness by D3D.

At Northtown Coffee that same Saturday, at 5 p.m. it's a duo called Synergy with songwriter Ernest Whaley and Kent Froblom, a flautist who used to play his flute with Marla Joy at The Silver Lining back in the day. (Ah, memories...)

That takes us back to Sunday Aug. 18, when the Humboldt Botanical Garden presents Music in the Garden featuring an all-star local country/blues/rock combo, The Handshakers.

And that Sunday evening, there's another Arcata Community Forest Show presented by the Outer Space folks.

"Meet in the big grass field at Redwood Park by the parking lot, at the top of 14th St. at 5:30 p.m. Start walking at 6 on the Trail 1 Loop, stop along the way to be serenaded under the big trees by Oliva Awbrey, Whim, Cicada Song and Tyger Byle."

Feel free to wear flowers in your hair.
See you next week.

Creamery | Stilt walkers, lanterns, audio installation

FROM B1
On Saturday, Aug 17, the Creamery Courtyard will host music from 3 to 7 p.m. Come browse the artisan shops and listen to tunes from Oyster Baes, Blood Hunny, and Sue and the Namis and then get ready for Elemental.

Saturday, Aug. 17 sees the return of the Playhouse's signature outdoor performance spectacle Elemental, complete with giant puppets, dancers, stilt walkers, live music, and community-created paper lanterns. This free family-friendly event takes place all around the Creamery Building and features the Playhouse's own Elemental Pageantry workshop students, Fairies from Redwood Raks, as well as professional performance artists from around Humboldt County. Meet at the Big top at 7:30 p.m. The procession begins at 8 pm.

This year we are offering the people a chance to pre-order balloon lanterns, to raise money for the free festival and for participants to take a little bit of Elemental home with them.

The festivities conclude on Sunday, Aug. 18 at 2 p.m. with a final performance from the Flynn Creek Circus.

More details on these and other events are on the web at creamerydistrict.org.

Carried forward from previous years is local artist Lush Newton's specially-commissioned outdoor art exhibit "California State Creamery; The Land of Milk and Honey." Inspired by the 100th anniversary of the Creamery Building, the artwork showcases Newton's unique, whimsical style in multiple oversized art pieces placed around the building, including representations of a historical train and train station, a family of Portuguese farmers, and a special ode to Creamery Building architect Franklin Georgeson.

Also continuing this year is Tim Gray's Footfall, an audio installation created to accompany a stroll around the Creamery District. While Gray's health prevents him from participating live in this year's event, his perspective on the Creamery District has not changed: "The world is quite a noise-filled place, so much so that most of us screen out much of this sound."

This piece is designed to envelop the listener in another aural world, an alternative universe in sound." Footfall can be found at creameryfestival.org/footfall.
